1 How to Sign Up and to Start Answering Questions

When you first open the webpage where you also found this guide, you may notice the red bar in the top part of the website. From here, you can choose to sign up and login. It is necessary to first sign up before you can answer questions. Your bar may look like either 1a or 1b, depending whenever you are browsing the website on a laptop or a phone.

If it looks like 1b, press the white button in the right side of it, then press the sign-up button when the slide-in bar appears in the left side. Otherwise, just press the sign up button.

You will now be shown what can be seen in figure 2. From here, fill out the formula and press the Sign Up button located next to the grey box where you can select a picture. When filling out the formula, know that we store every piece of information you type in, although the password is stored securely. If you are uncomfortable about this, just fill in any throw-away information. For the email-field, we do not ever send out verification emails or anything, so just put in something that looks like an email such as this_is_an@email.com. If you get an error when signing up, it may be due to someone else already having picked that username or email. In that case, choose something else.

Once you have successfully signed up, you will be greeted by what can be seen in figure 3a. As we are still working on the matching algorithm, we won't be able to find good matches yet after 10 questions, so ignore this and just press the Okay button. After pressing the button, you will be shown the first question, also shown in figure 3b. From here, please answer as many questions as you feel like.
